2011 IPAA
NATIONAL CONFERENCE

2011 IPAA NATIONAL CONFERENCE

We are witnessing dramatic change in the world's parliaments, with minority governments a growing presence in Australian politics at all levels. In 2010, the Federal system experienced its first hung parliament for more than fifty years.

IPAA National is pleased to announce Prime Minister Julia Gillard will deliver the Annual Garran Oration at the Conference.

The Conference will examine the challenges and opportunities that minority governments present for public administrators. Minority government will be put on trial, with the audience empowered to determine whether this form of government stifles decision-making or provides fertile ground for new approaches to government policy and services.

As the nation responds to global developments and changing community expectations, Prime Minister Julia Gillard will comment on the direction of the Australian Public Service and the Commonwealth public sector, as well as the future for public administration across all Australian jurisdictions.

To secure your place to hear Prime Minister Julia Gillard, book now at www.ipaationalconference.org.au and take advantage of the Early Bird price.
